

Debate on vaccine mandates leaves mental health providers conflicted

Mental Health Weekly interviewed Partner Rob Fuller regarding the decision on whether to mandate COVID-19 vaccination for staff members and the public health concerns against the reality of workforce shortages.

Read Full Article

For questions please contact: Rob Fuller

This article is provided for educational purposes only and is not offered as, and should not be relied on as, legal advice. Any individual or entity reading this information should consult an attorney for their particular situation.