

Addiction Treatment is Booming and Under-Regulated

Harry Nelson discusses how the addiction treatment industry is booming and under-regulated. He goes on to explain that all operators need to be focused on demonstrating their compliance and avoiding gray areas. Treatment centers that operate with impunity to regulations moving forward are playing with fire. Instead, smart operators need to ensure that they are operating in line with regulations surrounding patient and facilities safety, licensure and financial and marketing practices.

Read more