changes: HHS cut 18%; EPM programs delayed.” published in Part B News on March 27, 2017. From the article:

Those and other changes are meant to appease the hardline “Freedom Caucus” House members who have objected to the AHCA on grounds that it doesn’t go far enough to reverse the Affordable Care Act (ACA), says Harry Nelson, managing partner at law firm Nelson Hardiman in Los Angeles. But in appeasing those members, the House risks losing in the Senate. “The bill remains in jeopardy,” Nelson says.
